PARENT TRAINING

On November 5th and 6th, 2024, parents of children with autism from North Macedonia, Greece, Norway, and Cyprus gathered in Skopje for the STEAMing Ahead parent training. The sessions provided an introduction to STEAM education along with practical strategies for supporting STEAM learning at home. Parents explored hands-on STEAM activities from the Activity Book created by the STEAMing Ahead team. They had the opportunity to try out these activities and adapt them to their children's needs. This interactive experience empowered parents with new tools and strategies to make STEAM learning accessible and fun.

ACTIVITY BOOK

After receiving valuable feedback from the parents during the parent training session, the team finalized the Activity Book, that includes STEAM activities tailored to meet the specific needs of children with autism. It also covers topics such as: Overview of Autism Spectrum Disorders, benefits of STEAM education for children with autism, accessing the child's strengths and challenges, integrating STEAM into storytelling and adaptations for inclusive storytelling, as well as guidelines for parents on how to prepare their home for STEAM learning and how to integrate small, manageable STEAM activities into everyday routines. This book will be available in English, Macedonian, Greek, and Norwegian.
